

Karthik Reddy chennai karthik.reddy@email.com +91 98765 43210

i am a final year computer science student graduating 2026 who has spent the last two years building web applications mostly with javascript. from 01/2024-06/2024 i interned at a logistics startup where i wrote react components for their tracking dashboard and helped connect them to rest apis written by the backend team. later Summer 2024 i worked on a side project called routeplan which used node and express with a mongodb database to store delivery routes, i deployed it myself using docker on a digitalocean droplet. during 2023-24 i also did freelance work building small business websites with html css and some javascript, handled git for all of these projects and got comfortable with branching and merging. i have used sql lightly mostly sqlite for small things. currently learning typescript and writing tests with jest. comfortable working in a team, did agile sprints at the logistics startup.